The National Council for Metal Detecting

Code of Conduct

1. Do not trespass. Obtain permission before venturing on to any land.
2. Respect the Country Code, leave gates and property as you find them and do not damage crops, frighten animals or disturb nesting birds.
3. Wherever the site, do not leave a mess or an unsafe surface for those who may follow. It is perfectly simple to extract a coin or other small object buried a few inches below the ground without digging a great hole. Use a suitable digging implement to cut a neat flap (do not remove the plug of earth entirely from the ground), extract the object, reinstate the grass, sand or soil carefully, and even you will have difficulty in locating the find spot again.
4. If you discover any live ammunition or any lethal object such as an unexploded bomb or mine, do not disturb it. Mark the site carefully and report the find to the local police and landowner.
5. Help keep Britain tidy. Safely dispose of refuse you come across.
6. Report all unusual historical finds to the landowner, and acquaint yourself with current NCMD policy relating to the Voluntary Reporting of Portable Antiquities in England and Wales and the mandatory reporting requirements in Scotland. See:
<http://www.treasuretrovescotland.co.uk/index.asp>
7. Remember it is illegal for anyone to use a metal detector on a designated area (e.g. Scheduled Monuments (SM), Sites of Special Scientific Interest (SSSI), or Ministry of Defence property) without permission from the appropriate authority. It is also a condition of most agri-environment agreements that metal detecting access is subject to certain rules and regulations including mandatory finds recording. Details of these agreements and the access conditions they impose are detailed on the NCMD website.
8. Acquaint yourself with the terms and definitions used in the following documents: -
 - (1) Treasure contained in the Treasure Act 1996 and the associated Code of Practice, making sure you understand your responsibilities.
 - (2) Advice for Finders of Archaeological Objects including Treasure 2006.
 - (3) The voluntary Code of Practice for Responsible Metal Detecting to which the NCMD is an endorsee.
 - (4) Advice for finders in Scotland: see <http://www.treasuretrovescotland.co.uk/html/finders.asp>
9. Remember that when you are out with your metal detector you are an ambassador for our hobby. Do nothing that might give it a bad name.
10. Never miss an opportunity to explain your hobby to anyone who asks about it.

NCMD POLICY STATEMENT ON THE RECORDING OF FINDS DATA WITH THIRD PARTIES

The NCMD recognizes that landowners in England and Wales* hold a greater legal title to all non-Treasure items found by metal detection or other means on their land. In doing so, NCMD members need to recognize that they have a duty of care to ensure that they uphold this at all times. This duty also includes an intent to ensure that before seeking to record any finds and find spots with third parties they have full permission from the landowner/tenant/occupier to do so and then only to an accuracy and detail to which all relevant parties feel comfortable. Issues surrounding the potential publication of find spots data, such as on the Internet and elsewhere as well as the possible wider use of such data by third party recipients should be considered in discussions with landowners. Where necessary, recording organisations such as the Portable Antiquities Scheme should be informed of any required restrictions on publication at the time of recording and should make provision for this information on recording forms and/or receipts.

Where a landowner/tenant/occupier has entered into an agri-environment Scheme agreement after 2008 it is conditional that all finds discovered whilst metal detecting are made available for recording by the Portable Antiquities Scheme. Detectorists are reminded to follow at all times the terms and conditions laid down in the voluntary Code of Practice for Responsible Metal Detecting when searching such land.

The position in Scotland is different whereby all objects whose original owner or rightful heirs are unknown are the property of the Crown and can be claimed by the Crown. This means that neither finders nor landowners have any title to the material although the finder is normally eligible for a full market value "ex-gratia " reward if the Crown claims the object. The Treasure Trove Unit (www.treasuretrovescotland.co.uk) will normally require findspots details, but there is no requirement for finders to obtain landowner's permission to record this information. NCMD members have a duty of care to ensure that they comply with Scotland's Treasure Trove Laws at all times.*

Appendix D to the NCMD Constitution
AGM June 2012.

National Council for Metal Detecting: Equality Policy

1. Policy Objectives

1.1. The National Council For Metal Detecting (NCMD) is fully committed to the principles of equality of opportunity and is responsible for ensuring that no applicants, office holders, volunteers, participants or members (together "Stakeholders") are unlawfully discriminated against because of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation (together the "Protected Characteristics").

2. Purpose of the Policy

2.1. The NCMD recognises that individuals (and/or certain groups in our society who share one or more Protected Characteristics) may not have been able to participate equally and fully in hobby related activities in the past. In some instances this may have been as a result of unlawful discrimination.

2.2. This Policy has been produced to try to prevent and address any unlawful discrimination or other unfair treatment, whether intentional or unintentional, direct or indirect, against Stakeholders that may preclude them from participating fully in hobby related activities.

3. Legal Requirements

3.1. The NCMD is required by law not to unlawfully discriminate against its Stakeholders and recognises its legal obligations under, and will abide by the requirements of, the Equality Act 2010, and any equivalent legislation (as amended) in any UK jurisdiction, Jersey, Guernsey or the Isle of Man and any later amendments to such legislation or subsequent equality related legislation that may be relevant to The NCMD.

3.2. The NCMD will seek advice each time this Policy is reviewed to ensure it continues to reflect the current legal framework and good practice.

4. Discrimination, harassment, bullying and victimisation

The NCMD recognises the following as being unacceptable:

4.1. Unlawful discrimination which can take the following forms:

4.1.1. Direct Discrimination: treating someone less favourably than you would treat others because of a Protected Characteristic.

4.1.2. Indirect Discrimination: applying a provision, criterion or practice which, on the face of it, applies equally to all but which, in practice can disadvantage individuals with a particular Protected Characteristic. Such requirements or conditions are lawful only if they can be objectively justified.

4.2. Harassment: engaging in unwanted conduct relating to a relevant Protected Characteristic or unwanted conduct of a sexual nature where the conduct has the purpose or effect of violating the recipient's dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for the recipient, or any other individual affected by such conduct. The NCMD is committed to ensuring that its Stakeholders are able to conduct their activities free from harassment.

4.3. Bullying: the misuse of power or position to criticise persistently or to humiliate and undermine an individual's confidence.

4.4. Victimisation: subjecting someone to a detriment because he or she has in good faith taken action under the Equality Act 2010 (or equivalent legislation) by bringing proceedings, giving evidence or information in relation to proceedings, making an allegation that a person has contravened the Equality Act 2010 (or equivalent legislation) or doing any other thing for the purpose of or in connection with the Equality Act 2010 (or any equivalent legislation).

4.5. The NCMD regards discrimination, harassment, bullying or victimisation, as described above, as serious misconduct. All complaints will be taken seriously and appropriate measures including disciplinary action may be brought against any Stakeholder who unlawfully discriminates against, harasses, bullies or victimises any other person.

10. Complaints Procedures

10.1. To safeguard individual rights under this Equality Policy, any Stakeholder who believes they have suffered inequitable treatment within the scope of this Equality Policy may raise the matter through the NCMD Executive, or by contacting the General Secretary.

10.2. Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken against any NCMD Stakeholder who violates this Equality Policy.

10.3. An individual raising a grievance will not be penalised for doing so unless it is untrue and not made in good faith.

10.4. As with all grievance and disciplinary procedures, the final point of appeal relating to this policy is the NCMD Executive committee.
